Quality Calendar Style Daily Behavioral Report Card Planner. Daily Behavioral Report Cards are often used by parents and teachers of kids with ADHD or similar issues. They are used as a tool to help hold the child accountable for their actions as well as keeping the parents more informed so appropriate treatment can be implemented in a timely manner. No need to worry about finding out about situations weeks after they happened. Calendar Starts in August 2019 and goes till May 2020. This planner contains a week on each page with an area for teachers to show how the day went by circling a smiley face, blah face or frown face. There is also room for additional notes each day if needed. This book is perfect for the child to carry in their backpack every day to give to the teacher and take home to mom and dad to read over and sign each day. No single sheets to lose in a book bag. No photocopying. You will also end up with a whole school year record all in one place where you can easily see if progress is being made by just flipping through the book. A great reference to take with you to doctor appointments to show progress as well. This system makes it easy for everyone! This Behavioral Report would be best in a situation where the child has only one teacher throughout the day. Probably best for grades Kindergarten through Fifth grade. Check Twigs Greenpage on Amazon for a more detailed version for older kids or where the child switches teachers for subjects. 2020-2021 Monthly Calendar and Notebook The perfect organizer for any Pet Sitter! In response to the problems of these latchkey children, many public schools are now developing some form of school-based or school-related before- and after-school child care programs. The purpose of this fastback is to examine: (1) organizational criteria and structures of school-age child care programs; and (2) key issues that school personnel must address in order to develop an effective child care program affiliated with or administered by a public school. Following an introduction, the fastback's contents cover: (1) the effective child care program; (2) regulations and licensing; (3) types of child care programs (programs by age of children served, programs by type of sponsorship); (4) a typical school-age child care program (mission statement/major goals, program size and scope, calendar and hours of operation, staffing, staff qualifications and training, communication and public relations issues, curriculum and activities, financial matters); (5) miscellaneous issues (e.g., special needs, summer programs); and (6) resources. (Contains 13 resources.) (EV) You'll love this Unicorn Teacher Perpetual Calendar: Daycare Teacher Besties Teacher's Day Best Friend Stay super organized and don't wait till NYE. For home-based family child care (daycare) providers, taking care of the children is only half of the job. The other half is taking care of the business—tracking expenses, being profitable, filing taxes, and meeting government requirements. This resource covers everything family child care providers need to keep accurate business records. If a family child care provider pays close attention to the recommendations in this book, he or she will be able to claim the maximum allowable deductions and pay the lowest possible federal taxes. Since the previous edition of Family Child Care Record-Keeping Guide, Congress and the IRS have made many changes to tax rules that affect family child care providers. There have been changes in depreciation rules, adjustments to food and mileage rates, and clarifications on how to calculate the Time-Space percentage. Author Tom Copeland has been involved in many IRS audits and represented providers in several Tax Court cases that have also clarified numerous rules. Further necessitating this ninth edition, the IRS issued two significant new rules in 2013. These updates, new rules, and clarifications are detailed in this book; all of the information is applicable to child care providers in every state, regardless of local regulations. Tom Copeland, is a writer, trainer, lawyer, and consultant focusing on family child care business issues. He has conducted record-keeping, tax preparation, and business workshops for family child care providers across the country since 1981. An interactive weekday calendar which can be used in summer school programs, daycare centers, child care programs, by parents for in home use or for homeschooling. Concepts incorporated will help small children to develop number sense and to develop basic scientific skills of observing, recording, and predicting weather. Additionally, children self-monitor their behavioral patterns encouraging character building. The book is also ideal for older at-risk students. The magic of mixing colors, in a joyous story by a master colorist Zena's world lacks color, so she sets out to find some. On her walk, she first finds one primary color, then another. But red, blue, and yellow aren't enough—Zena wants more colors! Out pops an orange lion, a green frog, and a purple dragon, a combination of the colors she has seen. Zena and her friends then do some color mixing themselves, creating more colors and a bright painting using them all. Vibrant illustrations and simple text make Monica Wellington's latest a perfect pick for budding young artists and for fans of classics such as The Color Kittens and Mouse Paint.
